SECRETARY JARDINE GIVES REPORT ON GENERAL FARM PRICES

LATTER HAVE BEEN INFLUENCED BY THE SLUMP IN COTTON

By JOSEPH S. WASNEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Oct. 29. — Secretary of Commerce Hoover today gave President Coolidge an optimistic annual report on American foreign trade.

At the same time Secretary of Agriculture Jardine announced that the general farm price influenced by the slump in cotton has fallen 13 points in 12 months and now is only 10 points above the level in October, 1921, when the farmers went through their last heavy depression.

The farm price reports showed that the level dropped from 134 to 139 per cent of the pre-war level from September 15 to October 15. Cotton and cotton seed prices fell from 134 per cent of the pre-war level to 94 per cent in the month. The farm price of 11.7 cents a pound for cotton on October 15 dropped below the five year average of 12.1 cents.

Export trade of the nation is turning to manufactured and partly manufactured goods of which $2,572,000,000 were shipped abroad in the last fiscal year, Hoover reported. He said this tendency "would undoubtedly continue" reflecting expansion of domestic markets and domestic consumption for farm products.

SIOUX FALLS VOTES ON CITY MANAGER PLAN

AS GOVERNMENT TO REPLACE PRESENT ALDERMANIC FORM

HEAVY VOTE FORECAST IN THE SOUTH DAKOTA TOWN

Sioux Falls, S. D., Oct. 29. — (UP) — This city voted today on a proposal to adopt the city manager form of government to replace the present aldermanic form.

Greater interest has been manifested in the city manager election than in the general election next Tuesday and a heavy vote was forecast.

What threatened to be a campaign of silence has been tempered by columns of newspaper advertising, most of it against the proposal, with President Coolidge being quoted as against the plan.

George Burnside, who for 20 years was mayor of Sioux Falls and is one of the leaders in the move to adopt the plan, denies he is using it as a "camouflaged recall" of Mayor McKinnon, his successor, as charged by opponents.

LONE WOLF OF NORTH DAKOTA IS CONVICTED

Minot, N. D., Oct. 29. — (UP) — Morris Forrest, "lone wolf" of North Dakota, was convicted on the first ballot of a jury late yesterday of robbing the Piper-Howe Lumber Company, Minot, of $18,000 last April.

Forrest faced another trial today in which he was accused of robbing Louis Gliking, a laborer, of $3,800 on the streets of Minot about the same time as the lumber company robbery.

The "lone wolf" was not given his sentence in the Piper-Howe trial.

SHEPHERD BEGINS BATTLE FOR THE MILLION ESTATE

LEFT BY "BILLY" McCLINTOCK, WHOM HE WAS ACCUSED OF MURDERING

SUPREME COURT PERMITS THE WILL TO BE FILED FOR PROBATE

Chicago, Oct. 29. — (UP) — William Darling Shepherd's battle for the $1,000,000 estate left by "Billy" McClintock, his ward, whom he was accused of murdering, has only just begun, attorneys for the contestants of the will announced today.

The announcement followed a decision of the Illinois supreme court which upheld a decision of a local judge which permits the will, leaving the bulk of the estate to Shepherd, to be filed for probate.

"The decision is only a technical victory for Shepherd," John J. Healy, attorney for Miss Isabelle Pope, Billy's fiancée, who is one of the contestants, said. "The case is by no means settled."

The contestants to the will seek to prove that Shepherd exerted undue influence on McClintock, his millionaire ward, who died October 4, 1924, of typhoid fever. An investigation ensued after his death and Shepherd was indicted for murder.

Then the fight over the will began. Judge Horner refused to probate it. Shepherd appealed to Circuit Judge Kitcham Scanlan, who ruled that the will should be admitted to probate.

Contesting attorneys appealed and the supreme court ruled in favor of Shepherd.

YOUTH HANGED FOR MURDER OF POLICEMAN

STATE OF ILLINOIS EXACTS LIFE OF RICHARD EVANS, 20 YEARS OLD

LATTER FIRED SHOTS AS HE WAS RIDING IN A STOLEN AUTOMOBILE

Chicago, Oct. 29. — (UP) — The state of Illinois today exacted the life of Richard Evans, 20-year-old slayer, as the penalty for the youth's murder of Policeman Edward Finnegan.

Evans was hanged at the county jail at 7:11 A. M. He was pronounced dead 16 minutes later.

Before he died, the youth admitted to newspaper reporters that it was he and not Otto Hecker, his former friend, who fired the shots which killed Finnegan.

Both Evans and Hecker were arrested by Finnegan one night last spring, while they were riding in a stolen automobile. Finnegan was driving them to the station when Evans suddenly drew a revolver and shot the officer in the head. The policeman's body then was kicked from the automobile and the two boys fled to Texas where they were arrested. Hecker then turned state's evidence and testified that Evans said he killed the officer because he did not want to go back to the state reformatory as a parole violator.

Hecker has not been sentenced yet.

LAST RITES FOR COMMANDER, MAJ. GEN. BELI

DEATH NOT UNEXPECTED, SUFFERED FROM PERNICIOUS ANEMIA

AS WORLD WAR FIGURE HE WON DISTINGUISHED SERVICE MEDAL

Chicago, Oct. 29. — (UP) — Funeral services for Major General George Bell, Jr., war time commander of the 33rd Division of the A. E. F., who died here last night, will be planned late this morning at a meeting of military authorities and the family of the general.

Suffering from pernicious anemia, General Bell had been in a serious condition for a week and his death was not unexpected. He was 67 years old.

As a world war figure, General Bell won the distinguished service medal, was made Knight Commander of St. Michael and St. George, Commander of the Legion of Honor and awarded the Croix De Guerre with palm.

The 33rd under General Bell won fame on three fronts, taking 36 kilometers of territory under fire, capturing 68 officers, 3,924 men, 93 field pieces and 414 machine guns.

General Bell was born to the life of a soldier, being the son of Brigadier General George Bell, commandant at Fort Henry. At 21 he was graduated from West Point, and later was awarded an L. L. B. degree at the University of Minnesota. He was admitted to the New York bar in 1894.

He was retired from the service in 1922 after closing his army career as commander of the sixth corps area and then became president of the Hill State Bank here.

A year ago he went to California for his health and improved some. Coming back here a week ago, he suddenly took a turn for the worse and his death followed.

NEW YORK TO PARIS FLIGHT IN AIRPLANE

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 29. — (UP) — A New York to Paris flight in an airplane will be made during the summer of 1927, according to Lieut. Commander Byrd, first air conqueror of the North Pole, who spoke here last night.

Byrd would not say whether he would make the flight, observing that his backers would not permit him to talk.

Rene Fonck's failure to make the flight was due to overloading, Byrd believed. Two companions of the French ace were killed in the disastrous start of his plane last month.

KU KLUX KLAN ACTIVITIES IN INDIANA PROBED

MARION COUNTY GRAND JURY EXTENDS INVESTIGATION BEYOND ELECTION

JURY POLLED STATES IT HAS NO REPORTS TO MAKE AT PRESENT

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 29. — (UP) — The Marion county grand jury investigation of charges of Ku Klux Klan political corruption in Indiana will extend beyond election day next Tuesday, it was indicated today.

Prosecutor William H. Remy said the grand jury would recess at noon today until Monday and on Monday evening a recess would be taken until Wednesday.

Judge James A. Collins in criminal court instructed the grand jury earlier in the week that if evidence had been found warranting indictments against any candidates up for election Tuesday, the true bills should be returned before election day.

The jury answered that it had no report to make at that time but would continue the inquiry for several days yet.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 29. — Marked so far by testimony introduced in an effort to show that the Ku Klux Klan formerly dominated Indiana politics, the senate slush fund committee's investigation of Hoosier political affairs again will be taken up after the close of the election campaigns.

This announcement was made last night when Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, chairman of the investigation committee, recessed the St. Louis hearing to help out in his party's Missouri campaign.

The last day of the hearing which Reed held here because he was too busy to go to Indiana, was marked by testimony which attempted to show that Senator James E. Watson of Indiana is linked with the Klan in that state.

The committee was told by William M. Rogers, an Indianapolis Klansman, that Watson carried on Imperial Klan passport. Senator Watson and his aides have denied that they solicited Klan support.

After closing the Klan hearing, Reed delivered a campaign address last night in which he assailed the national administration for "laxity in dealing with recent frauds."

"The red line of the circumference of corruption runs across the White House grounds and passes through the heart of the Coolidge administration," Reed declared. "The cold, unblushing truth is that Calvin Coolidge and his administration are servants of great trusts and corporations."

He asserted that Mr. Coolidge had "shown as much animation as a Boston Bay oyster out of season," so far as making an effective effort to air the recent scandals.

Reed's speech was delivered in behalf of Harry B. Hawes, democratic candidate for United States senator from Missouri.

PROSPECTS OF FURTHER FIGHTS GIVEN IMPETUS

BIRGER FACTION DEFIANT BECAUSE OF SHOOTING OF SOME OF ITS MEN

NUMEROUS SHOOTINGS AND MACHINE GUNNING OF ROAD-HOUSES

Marion, Ill., Oct. 29. — (UP) — A sense of foreboding gripped southern Illinois today as citizens anticipated renewed fighting between the Birger and Shelton gangs, the two factions now engaged in a bitter feud for control of the coal belt liquor business.

The prospect of further fighting was given added impetus when Chas. Birger, leader of one faction, belligerently reiterated his former statements: "I am out after the Sheltons."

Birger is defiant because of the recent shooting of some of his men. The fight between the two gangs who formerly worked together, assumed serious appearance almost two months ago when the breach between them became decided.

Since that time there has been numerous shootings and machine gunning of roadhouses, which have been attributed by authorities to the two gangs.

Several alleged Birger and Shelton men have been killed.

Birger said that the original break between the two gangs occurred when the Sheltons persisted in adding bank and highway robberies as a sideline to the liquor business.

"I wanted to work the liquor business for what it was worth," he said, "and stay out of the dangerous stuff. There was plenty of money in liquor and gambling."

"But the Sheltons had made a lot of money in the liquor racket, and I guess were pretty ambitious. Well, we finally broke and I reckon they started out right then to get me."

"First thing I knew they had converted an oil tank that used to be used for hauling whisky into an armored car. The top half of the tank could be removed and eighty cases of liquor put in. They're using the thing as an armored car now."

The two gangs are said to center their activities in Franklin, Williamson and Saline counties. The most important official action taken in the fight so far has been by State's Attorney R. O. Martin, and Sheriff Henry Dorris of Franklin county.

The two officials went to a roadhouse alleged to be operated by the Sheltons and told the occupants to get out of the county. This order was complied with, the authorities said, all of the alleged gangsters in the place driving out toward the south on a road which would eventually take them into Williamson county, scene of the bloody Herrin massacres and killing of S. Glenn Young.

BIRTHDAY PARTY IN CANADA FOR QUEEN MARIE

TO RESEMBLE AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE THE GAYETY IN BUCHAREST

PICTURESQUE GRANDDAUGHTER OF QUEEN VICTORIA IS 51 YEARS OLD

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train in Canada, Oct. 29. — Although thousands of miles from home, officials and attaches planned a birthday celebration today for Queen Marie resembling as much as possible the gayety surrounding her on such days in Bucharest.

Her majesty is 51 years old. Such an age is rather paradoxical for the picturesque and democratic granddaughter of Queen Victoria. It is only when the queen is fatigued from extensive social programs that she appears her age, and such times are rare. Today she was in high spirits and rivalled her 17-year-old daughter, Ileana, in youthful exuberance.

Members of the party kept silent their plans for the birthday. It was not likely, however, that there would be anything more than quiet presentation of gifts from intimates of the family and expressions of pleasure over the significance of the occasion.

The entire family is looking forward to next week when each will be freed for one day from the usual round of social events. The decision of Queen Marie of the "one day vacation" in which the royal trio will be ordinary individuals and do just as they please, has brought inexpressible joy to Ileana and Prince Nicholas, who have suffered more repression on the American trip than ever before in their life.

SET OF CHARGES AGAINST WRIGHT, DANCER DROPPED

WISCONSIN AUTHORITIES TAKE ACTION IN MINNEAPOLIS COURT

HAD BEEN CHARGED WITH BEING FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE FROM WISCONSIN

Minneapolis, Oct. 29. — (UP) — Wisconsin charges against Frank Lloyd Wright and Mme. Olga Milanoff were dismissed in Minneapolis municipal court today.

Floyd B. Olson, Hennepin county attorney, received a telegram from E. J. Bohn, district attorney of Sauk county, Wisconsin, where state charges of adultery had been filed against Wright and his former housekeeper, reading:

"No action will be taken on any warrants sworn out in Sauk county against Frank Lloyd Wright."

The telegram was sent yesterday. Upon motion of William K. Nash, attorney for Wright, the cases against the architect and his sweetheart, charging them with being fugitives from justice from Wisconsin, were dismissed.

Nash announced after the hearing that Mme. Milanoff "is in a very serious condition and has been removed to a sanitarium. She will not," he added, "be able to appear at the hearing tomorrow on the federal charges against her and Wright. An operation has been advised."

Wright and Mme. Milanoff face federal charges of conspiracy to violate the Mann act which District Attorney LaFayette French, Jr., has refused to dismiss.

The charges grew out of the couple's flight together from Wisconsin to Minnesota.

BELIEVE IT WILL SOLVE MANY MYSTERIES

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ASA KEYES MAKES DECLARATION

TRUNK WAS FOUND IN A NEW YORK CITY HOTEL

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 29. — A trunkful of women's clothing which Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive radio operator, is said to have taken across the continent to New York City, will furnish a real solution to the mysterious Almee Semple McPherson case, District Attorney Asa Keyes declared today.

After a five weeks' hearing of Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, on charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with the evangelist's famous tale of kidnapping, the prosecutor said he believes that the trunkful of finery will clinch his case.

The trunk was found in a New York City hotel and was expected here today.

Chief among the garments in the trunk were lingerie, sleeping apparel, an evangelist's dressing robe and evening gowns, according to Keyes.

The prosecutor asserts also that a boudoir cap in the trunk contained a strand of auburn hair. This single hair, he said, would be "subjected to a complete microscopic analysis."

Mrs. McPherson merely ridiculed the latest "clue" of the district attorney.

"Oh, my," she said, "has Mr. Keyes really found a trunk? How interesting! I presume it contains the body of a murdered man—probably Ormiston's. Woman's clothing—how amazing!"

Mrs. McPherson refused to comment on the district attorney's assertion that the trunk contained considerable boudoir finery, including an evangelist's dressing robe.

Keyes claims most of the clothing was purchased here and that he can trace its origin. He said there was no evidence of a documentary nature in the trunk.

A man's silk handkerchief with the name "Paul Rader" embroidered in one corner was among the effects, also said the prosecutor.

Rader is a Chicago evangelist who occupied the pulpit at Angelus Temple while Mrs. McPherson was touring the Holy Land last winter.

The presentation of testimony by Mrs. McPherson and her associates ended yesterday. Arguments of opposing counsel are to begin next Wednesday.

SEARCH FOR MAN WHO HAD PASSION FOR WRECKING TRAINS

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 29. — (UP) — Northern Wisconsin authorities, assisted by railroad detectives, were searching today for a man, who apparently has a passion for wrecking trains.

The search was instigated after an attempt had been made to wreck a Soo Line train near Ashland Junction. Charles Erickson, a farmer living near here, picked up a stick of dynamite on the tracks about two miles south of the junction.

One end of the stick had been crushed by the wheels of a train. He immediately notified train officials and the explosive was removed.

According to Erickson, the dynamite had apparently been placed on the track for the purpose of wrecking the first train that ran over it. Railroad men declared that had the dynamite been fired the engine might have been blown from the track and the entire train plunged down a 75-foot embankment.

Railroad men today recalled two previous attempts to wreck trains in this vicinity, both within the last year.

BIRGER FACTION DEFIANT BECAUSE OF SHOOTING OF SOME OF ITS MEN

NUMEROUS SHOOTINGS AND MACHINE GUNNING OF ROAD-HOUSES

Marion, Ill., Oct. 29. — (UP) — A sense of foreboding gripped southern Illinois today as citizens anticipated renewed fighting between the Birger and Shelton gangs, the two factions now engaged in a bitter feud for control of the coal belt liquor business.

The prospect of further fighting was given added impetus when Chas. Birger, leader of one faction, belligerently reiterated his former statements: "I am out after the Sheltons."

Birger is defiant because of the recent shooting of some of his men. The fight between the two gangs who formerly worked together, assumed serious appearance almost two months ago when the breach between them became decided.

Since that time there has been numerous shootings and machine gunning of roadhouses, which have been attributed by authorities to the two gangs.

Several alleged Birger and Shelton men have been killed.

Birger said that the original break between the two gangs occurred when the Sheltons persisted in adding bank and highway robberies as a sideline to the liquor business.

"I wanted to work the liquor business for what it was worth," he said, "and stay out of the dangerous stuff. There was plenty of money in liquor and gambling."

"But the Sheltons had made a lot of money in the liquor racket, and I guess were pretty ambitious. Well, we finally broke and I reckon they started out right then to get me."

"First thing I knew they had converted an oil tank that used to be used for hauling whisky into an armored car. The top half of the tank could be removed and eighty cases of liquor put in. They're using the thing as an armored car now."

The two gangs are said to center their activities in Franklin, Williamson and Saline counties. The most important official action taken in the fight so far has been by State's Attorney R. O. Martin, and Sheriff Henry Dorris of Franklin county.

The two officials went to a roadhouse alleged to be operated by the Sheltons and told the occupants to get out of the county. This order was complied with, the authorities said, all of the alleged gangsters in the place driving out toward the south on a road which would eventually take them into Williamson county, scene of the bloody Herrin massacres and killing of S. Glenn Young.

$12,000 REWARD FOR CAPTURE OF MANIAC

Toledo, O., Oct. 29. — (UP) — Despite the $12,000 reward offered for information leading to capture of the maniac believed responsible for a series of clubbing murders here, police today admitted no promising developments in their hunt for the fiend.

Every lead has been followed, they said, but so far none has led anywhere. A roundup of all persons known to be mentally deficient accomplished nothing.

Lily Croy, beaten to death Monday, was buried yesterday.

BIRTHDAY PARTY IN CANADA FOR QUEEN MARIE

TO RESEMBLE AS MUCH AS POSSIBLE THE GAYETY IN BUCHAREST

PICTURESQUE GRANDDAUGHTER OF QUEEN VICTORIA IS 51 YEARS OLD

By JOHN MONTGOMERY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Aboard Queen Marie's Special Train in Canada, Oct. 29. — Although thousands of miles from home, officials and attaches planned a birthday celebration today for Queen Marie, who is 51 years old, and who is said to resemble as much as possible the gayety surrounding her on such days in Bucharest.

Her majesty is 51 years old. Such an age is rather paradoxical for the picturesque and democratic granddaughter of Queen Victoria. It is only when the queen is fatigued from extensive social programs that she appears her age, and such times are rare. Today she was in high spirits and revelled her 17-year-old daughter, Ileana, in youthful exuberance.

Members of the party kept silent their plans for the birthday. It was not likely, however, that there would be anything more than quiet presentation of gifts from intimates of the family and expressions of pleasure over the significance of the occasion.

The entire family is looking forward to next week when each will be freed for one day from the usual round of social events. The decision of Queen Marie of the "one day vacation" in which the royal trio will be ordinary individuals and do just as they please, has brought inexpressible joy to Ileana and Prince Nicholas, who have suffered more repression on the American trip than ever before in their life.

SET OF CHARGES AGAINST WRIGHT, DANCER DROPPED

WISCONSIN AUTHORITIES TAKE ACTION IN MINNEAPOLIS COURT

HAD BEEN CHARGED WITH BEING FUGITIVES FROM JUSTICE FROM WISCONSIN

Minneapolis, Oct. 29. — (UP) — Wisconsin charges against Frank Lloyd Wright and Mme. Olga Milanoff were dismissed in Minneapolis municipal court today.

Floyd B. Olson, Hennepin county attorney, received a telegram from E. J. Bohn, district attorney of Sauk county, Wisconsin, where state charges of adultery had been filed against Wright and his former housekeeper, reading:

"No action will be taken on any warrants sworn out in Sauk county against Frank Lloyd Wright."

The telegram was sent yesterday. Upon motion of William K. Nash, attorney for Wright, the cases against the architect and his sweetheart, charging them with being fugitives from justice from Wisconsin, were dismissed.

Nash announced after the hearing that Mme. Milanoff "is in a very serious condition and has been removed to a sanitarium. She will not," he added, "be able to appear at the hearing tomorrow on the federal charges against her and Wright. An operation has been advised."

Wright and Mme. Milanoff face federal charges of conspiracy to violate the Mann act which District Attorney LaPayette French, Jr., has refused to dismiss.

The charges grew out of the couple's flight together from Wisconsin to Minnesota.

BELIEVE IT WILL SOLVE MANY MYSTERIES

DISTRICT ATTORNEY ASA KEYES MAKES DECLARATION

TRUNK WAS FOUND IN A NEW YORK CITY HOTEL

By LINCOLN QUARBERG
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 29. — A trunkful of women's clothing which Kenneth G. Ormiston, fugitive radio operator, is said to have taken across the continent to New York City, will furnish a real solution to the mysterious Almee Semple McPherson case, District Attorney Asa Keyes declared today.

After a five weeks' hearing of Mrs. McPherson and her mother, Mrs. Minnie Kennedy, on charges of perjury and conspiracy in connection with the evangelist's famous tale of kidnapping, the prosecutor said he believes that the trunkful of finery will clinch his case.

The trunk was found in a New York City hotel and was expected here today.

Chief among the garments in the trunk were lingerie, sleeping apparel, an evangelist's dressing robe and evening gowns, according to Keyes.

The prosecutor asserts also that a boudoir cap in the trunk contained a strand of auburn hair. This single hair, he said, would be "subjected to a complete microscopic analysis."

Mrs. McPherson merely ridiculed the latest "clue" of the district attorney.

"Oh, my," she said, "has Mr. Keyes really found a trunk? How interesting! I presume it contains the body of a murdered man—probably Ormiston's. Woman's clothing—how amazing!"

Mrs. McPherson refused to comment on the district attorney's assertion that the trunk contained considerable boudoir finery, including an evangelist's dressing robe.

Keyes claims most of the clothing was purchased here and that he can trace its origin. He said there was no evidence of a documentary nature in the trunk.

A man's silk handkerchief with the name "Paul Rader" embroidered in one corner was among the effects, also said the prosecutor.

Rader is a Chicago evangelist who occupied the pulpit at Angelus Temple while Mrs. McPherson was touring the Holy Land last winter.

The presentation of testimony by Mrs. McPherson and her associates ended yesterday. Arguments of opposing counsel are to begin next Wednesday.

SEARCH FOR MAN WHO HAD PASSION FOR WRECKING TRAINS

Ashland, Wis., Oct. 29. — (UP) — Northern Wisconsin authorities, assisted by railroad detectives, were searching today for a man, who apparently has a passion for wrecking trains.

The search was instigated after an attempt had been made to wreck a Soo Line train near Ashland Junction. Charles Erickson, a farmer living near here, picked up a stick of dynamite on the tracks about two miles south of the junction.

One end of the stick had been crushed by the wheels of a train. He immediately notified train officials and the explosive was removed.

According to Erickson, the dynamite had apparently been placed on the track for the purpose of wrecking the first train that ran over it. Railroad men declared that had the dynamite been fired the engine might have been blown from the track and the entire train plunged down a 75-foot embankment.

Railroad men today recalled two previous attempts to wreck trains in this vicinity, both within the last year.

Judge McClenahan Gives Views on High School Question

Oct. 28, 1926.
Editor of the Brainerd Dispatch:

The high school propositions to be acted upon at the approaching election have been productive of much discussion and some confusion of thought, the latter seeming to be due to a failure to have the essential facts prominently in mind. I have not been in a position to become acquainted with these discussions at first hand, but many of the views so expressed have reached me from sources that are unquestionably reliable. A recital of all, or even of a majority of them, here is impracticable, of course. One that seems to have been particularly stressed but that is quite erroneous is that the so-called School Aid is directly involved. It is not. Of course, both of the propositions to be submitted contemplate the selection of the Washington School site as the location for the high school, and some seem to have acquired the notion that should the vote be adverse to such selection the State Aid would be jeopardized, if not lost. I do not understand such to be the case. The important factor connected with State Aid is not that a high school shall be built on the block at Sixth and Oak streets or on any other particular site, but the important thing is that a definite purpose shall be shown to construct a new practical and safe high school building somewhere in the city and within a reasonable time. The defeat of the present propositions, or either of them, in no way commits the district to an abandonment of the high school project. The selection of a site should be made with a view toward the public interest but not because the individual voter or some friend may benefit by the result. Such a school affects, and will continue to affect for many years, the entire city, and the individual voter should get this point of view clearly in mind. He should also be careful not to assist in bringing about a situation that shall result in the sacrifice of property now owned by the district. A part of the present plan of the Board of Education seems to be to take down a substantial portion of the Washington School building (12 rooms, which might be used instead of the basement rooms in which young children are now compelled to receive instruction in various parts of the city) so as to permit a high school to be built on the space so vacated. This plan will not only involve the immediate expenditure of a large sum of money but it will also destroy a structure that could well be used for a needed grade school and junior high, to say nothing of the withdrawal, during the period required for the change, of all high school facilities. No playground will be provided for under such a plan, but one must later be purchased or otherwise acquired. This seems like useless expense and means increased taxation.

Probably I should apologize for taking up so much of your space, but in the 44 years I have resided in Brainerd I think the files of the city newspapers would show that this is the first communication ever made over my signature. The matter is one of general interest and as such intrigues me; I have also a special interest arising from the fact that my son is now a sophomore in the high school and hopes to graduate there. The foregoing are but my personal views and may not accord with those of other citizens. They mean nevertheless that I shall vote "No" on both propositions and feel that, in all fairness, no other course is open.

Yours respectfully,
W. S. McCLENAHAN.

Opposes Present High School Proposition

Dear Sir:-

Having been interested for several years in the immediate erection of a new high school; having studied closely the distribution and the needs of the various children in the various sections of our town; having noted the nature of the pros and cons advanced upon the subject, at election time and other times; I am convinced that each year of postponement will make it harder for the teaching staff and more embarrassing for the school board, while more parents will become more interested than now and then become more insistent on some definite, prompt and rational move. However, in spite of any impatience, or urgent need, we need not hesitate to vote another six-times on this same question; the point is, vote "NO" every time the ballot does not contain what you believe is not giving the greatest good to the greatest number and in a practical way. Finally, and if but slowly, the proper solution will present itself, and the vote will be sufficient to demonstrate it.

I do not believe that it is a serious matter to our town whether the new high school is one block east or one block west of a certain point. High school students are not grade school students; with the latter, schooling is compulsory, while with the former it is not true to the same extent. If the higher education is desired, the child will go miles to get it, and a block or two more is inconsequential. But when it becomes a matter of destroying well-situated school property in a place where more grade schools are actually needed, just to make room for more high school students, it seems to me that the school problem is being approached in an impractical way. If proponents now believe that in this manner they are solving the high-school problem; I maintain that they are promptly and seriously messing the equally important grade-school problem.

It is all too evident that the so-called south side has as its most urgent need greater grade-school accommodations. That accommodation is what the present Washington building would furnish; so why destroy it, or convert it to other uses. On the other hand, it is the whole town that needs a high school; but the last place to be advocated is the Washington site, in view of the need of the present building for a more urgent purpose in that very locality.

Others have already written some good arguments why people should vote No on the School ballot and I need not repeat them. What I desire to accomplish herein is to make it known that the voters should not feel that by voting NO they stop all possibilities. The School Board knows that this matter can not be left undecided, and that it will have to keep on presenting something for a vote. The Board tries this and that, giving all views a test, and thereby endeavors to ascertain what is preferred by the citizens. I shall vote NO on both school questions, and I shall continue to vote NO until the ballot shows that the whole and not a part of the school problem has been solved; and in helping defeat the measures now I shall have no feeling that the children are being harmed unnecessarily. The school question is not a matter of today only; obvious conditions that relate to the immediate future are of equal and possibly of greater importance.

Very truly yours,
CARL ZAPFFE.

And further on in the editorial you gave him credit for being the author of a bill for the establishment of sewers and manner of levying assessments therefor, and also as co-author of Chapter 259 of Laws of 1923 setting aside

You also stated that he was instrumental in securing a continuation of the special school aid for Brainerd from the State Treasury. You also gave him credit for being co-author of the bill providing for an additional $30,000,000.00 for loans to farmers of the state.

I have made a thorough investigation of the records of both the house and the senate for 1923 and 1925 and have also a letter in my office from Mike Holm, Secretary of State, proving conclusively 90 per cent of your editorial false. I am inclosing you a copy of the letter received from the Secretary of State's office.

I have always had great respect for your paper and I do not believe that you would be dishonest with the voters of this district intentionally, and will appreciate if you will set your readers right as to the facts of Senator Rosenmeier's record for the past four years as being a representative of the people of this district.

CHANGES IN REPORTING

THE November Century magazine contains an interesting article by Charles Merz, of the New York World on "The American Press." It shows that newspaper styles have changed like fashions in fiction.

Mr. Merz starts his story with an account of how the battle of Waterloo was handled by the London Times:

"When Wellington smashed the armies of Napoleon Bonaparte, the London Times took the news calmly and printed it without a headline. Down in the last column of the first page, under an advertisement headed, 'Education—Ladies' School,' began the first printed story of the battle of Waterloo as quietly as an uncle writing to his niece.

How the modern metropolitan newspaper would cover the same kind of battle is described as follows:

"With a new Waterloo to report, there would be headlines in our own press high enough and black enough to shout their news a city block. There would be bulletins flashed from the scene of battle to accompany photographs of troop movements sent by telegraph. There would be eye-witness stories sent by cable and eye-witness stories sent by wireless, bulletins of Napoleon's arrival in Nivelles almost before he got there and column of speculation on the women's page as to how Maria Louisa took the news."

As we view the matter, the makeup man of the London Times had his page made up. When that momentous thing is accomplished, nothing short of a cataclysm, calamity or catastrophe far outranking the battle of Waterloo could induce him to change the complexion of that front page. It was out of the question to set a separate head. In fact, in those days, newspapers were most sparing with any kind of a headline. A headline breathed a topic, just as children head their compositions. No effort was ever made to have a headline with its attached pyramids give an epitome of the news story.

As things stand today, we consider it extremely lucky that the makeup man relented sufficiently to stop his work and stick the Waterloo mixup of Napoleon and Wellington under the ladies school ad and without a heading. It was necessary to preserve the position of the ladies school, as that was a paid advertisement.

Viewing the whole proceeding, one comes to the conclusion that the composure of the makeup man on that day's issue of the London Times was something admirable, entirely unruffled and meticulously perfect and in accordance with the display of news of that period.

In other words, if Wellington had to have a battle of Waterloo, why in thunder couldn't he have it in good season before the paper was made up?

ECONOMY PROGRAM IS EFFECTIVE

VANCE CHAPMAN, the "County Chairman," is an observant writer and has this to say of the economy program of Governor Christianson:

Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, and Alfred Jacques, who is carrying the Democratic banner, do not take kindly to Governor's Christianson's brand of economy or his method of enforcing it. His stuff savors entirely too much of the dictator they say.

In the primary campaign, George E. Leach, the Governor's lone competitor, took a similar stand and failed to carry a county in the state. Another to attack the Governor's program was Floyd B. Olson in the campaign of 1924 and he also bit the dust in the finals. Instead of offering something better they put in their entire time advertising His Excellency and the result was disastrous in their case.

Admitting for the sake of argument that the average economy program is far from what it purports to be, still it is not without its appeal. Every taxpayer is strong in the belief that there is room for reform and he is generally strong for the fellow that can even make a showing. Viewed from this neck of the woods both Johnson and Jacques are making votes for the Governor.

THE WORLD MOVES

IN scanning a report of the proceedings of the thirty-ninth annual session of the United Commercial Travelers, held at Columbus last June, we came upon the report of members who had attended the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Mention is made of various river and harbor projects. Included in these is Muscle Shoals undertaking. Muscle Shoals project for power generation seems to be an undertaking bearing all the earmarks of antiquity, almost in line with the pyramids of the Egyptians, the mounds of the mound-builders in our Mississippi and doing about as much actual good. We quote:

"Another waste of money (by congress) was the dribbling appropriations for important and essential projects, which in many instances didn't cover the depreciation from year to year. A conspicuous example is the canal around the falls of the Tennessee River, at Muscle Shoals, Ala. This improvement was begun in 1820; ninety-seven years later, when the World War began, it was still unfinished, and if it had not been for that great event, the work would doubtless be unfinished at this time, 106 years after it was begun."

"FAIRMONT, in grand old Martin county, seems to get itself into more tight places than any other town in the state," says The Hibbing News. "With three funerals to be held, it was discovered that the town's only official grave-digger was locked up in the village bastille, charged with bootlegging." According to our notion, the whole affair is a grave matter and the facts should be dug up.

HEINIE MITCHELL, in an extended editorial in the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, deplors the decline of the "social call." It may be declining in Bemidji, but not in Brainerd. He and his wife should belong to one of our "vanishing clubs" at Brainerd and he would find the "social call" and friendly gathering and dinner and card party revived to the highest degree.

WE don't mind hearing a lot of predictions about the cold weather just around the corner. We claim, and The Dispatch is some prognosticator too, that this will not be a terrific winter in regard to frigid temperature. We shall have mild weather past Christmas. Our coldest period will be the six weeks when the cold begins to strengthen.

Miss Carrie Dittmer of St. Paul is a guest in the city of Mrs. William Murray.

City Clerk Low has returned from Fargo having been called on account of the accidental burning of his sister-in-law Mrs. Les Low. She was quite badly scorched but no serious results are anticipated.

James J. Nolan returned last night from New Paynesville where he has been teaching school and is making preparations to enter upon his duties as mail carrier.

This morning a petition was circulated by A. H. Bennett representing the Odd Fellows lodge of this city, among the business men asking them to close their respective places of business during the hours of the funeral of the late P. M. Lagerquist tomorrow afternoon from 1 to 4 o'clock. Of all the business men seen there was not one but what responded and gladly agreed to close. The response was more than was expected, all kinds of stores as well as public offices and other lines of business being represented on the petition. The funeral will doubtless be one of the largest ever held in this city. The services at the M. E. church will begin promptly at 2 o'clock. Interment will be made in Evergreen cemetery.

Mr. and Mrs. George D. LaBar left this afternoon and Judge Holland leaves tonight for St. Paul where they will attend the wedding ceremony tomorrow evening of Arthur B. Church to Miss Mary Holland. The bride-to-be is well known in this city, having been connected with the city schools for some time. The groom is a prominent young attorney of Staples. The wedding will be a swell affair and will occur tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

In answer to invitations, a group of 14 gathered last evening at the home of Mrs. R. C. Wyre, 1824 Oak street, at one of the season's most enjoyable Halloween parties. Everyone appeared in costumes and regalia appropriate for the occasion.

The harvest theme predominated in the decorations and Halloween symbols prevailed everywhere. Upon entering the home, guests were greeted by a ghost who initiated them into the terrors of darkness finally bringing them to a witch who dispensed fortunes with a willing hand. Progressive games were played with prizes as a reward. At the close of the evening a delicious lunch was served.

ABSTRACTS... Political Propaganda

TO THE VOTERS:

In the year 1898 I had purchased the necessary books and made up a set of Abstracts of Crow Wing County; I paid for the books and did the work myself (this was 6 years before I was elected Register of Deeds), and did not ask the tax payers of the County to pay for them.

During the next 6 years I made Abstracts in competition with the then Register of Deeds, Mr. H. J. Spencer.

In the fall of 1904 I was elected Register of Deeds, and took office in January, 1905, and have since kept the records in that office. All of said records are the property of Crow Wing County and are kept up to date at all times as required by law. Any capable citizen can make Abstracts or Abstract Books from these County Records.

The cry put up by my opponent is all political propaganda as evidenced by the statement over his own signature that he has organized an Abstract Company, and whether elected or not, will be prepared to do general Abstracting after January 1st, 1927; this statement is made by Mr. Strout under date of October 2nd, 1926, and published in the papers October 11th, so that in spite of the great noise he puts up about the records in the Register of Deeds Office, he states he will be able to complete from these records Abstract Books and do a general Abstract business by January 1st, 1927; he has not yet started to make the Abstract Books, so there is now but little over two months left, and yet Mr. Strout can, according to his statement, easily prepare these Abstract Books in that time from the existing records.

Regarding Mr. Strout's cry for Tract Index Records, any Register of Deeds will be glad to make up Tract Index Records, should the County decide to pay the fees for making them, as provided by law, but the cost to the tax payers will be thousands of dollars and not $500.00 as suggested by my opponent. Have you, Mr. Tax Payer, had occasion to use a Tract Index? Have you heretofore felt the want of such an index? They would be of very little benefit to but a few people and a constant additional expense to the purchaser of property, but would add greatly to the fees of the Register of Deeds.

Mr. Strout says, if the County owns the Abstracts or Tract Index Books, it then becomes the duty of the Register of Deeds to keep the same up; that is true, as far as it goes; Mr. Strout neglected to tell you that for doing this, the Register of Deeds shall charge fees for this in addition to the fees now charged, which will take from the citizens of our County much more money than they now pay, and will in that amount increase the pay received by the Register of Deeds.

Without any charge to the tax payers I have daily given to many of them accurate and complete information from these Abstract Books, and, if elected, I shall continue to give them the same old reliable service.

Respectfully,
A. G. TROMMALD.

CHANGES IN REPORTING

THE November Century magazine contains an interesting article by Charles Merz, of the New York World on "The American Press." It shows that newspaper styles have changed like fashions in fiction.

Mr. Merz starts his story with an account of how the battle of Waterloo was handled by the London Times:

"When Wellington smashed the armies of Napoleon Bonaparte, the London Times took the news calmly and printed it without a headline. Down in the last column of the first page, under an advertisement headed, 'Education—Ladies' School,' began the first printed story of the battle of Waterloo as quietly as an uncle writing to his niece.

How the modern metropolitan newspaper would cover the same kind of battle is described as follows:

"With a new Waterloo to report, there would be headlines in our own press high enough and black enough to shout their news a city block. There would be bulletins flashed from the scene of battle to accompany photographs of troop movements sent by telegraph. There would be eye-witness stories sent by cable and eye-witness stories sent by wireless, bulletins of Napoleon's arrival in Nivelles almost before he got there and column of speculation on the women's page as to how Maria Louisa took the news."

As we view the matter, the makeup man of the London Times had his page made up. When that momentous thing is accomplished, nothing short of a cataclysm, calamity or catastrophe far outranking the battle of Waterloo could induce him to change the complexion of that front page. It was out of the question to set a separate head. In fact, in those days, newspapers were most sparing with any kind of a headline. A headline breathed a topic, just as children head their compositions. No effort was ever made to have a headline with its attached pyramids give an epitome of the news story.

As things stand today, we consider it extremely lucky that the makeup man relented sufficiently to stop his work and stick the Waterloo mixup of Napoleon and Wellington under the ladies school ad and without a heading. It was necessary to preserve the position of the ladies school, as that was a paid advertisement.

Viewing the whole proceeding, one comes to the conclusion that the composure of the makeup man on that day's issue of the London Times was something admirable, entirely unruffled and meticulously perfect and in accordance with the display of news of that period.

In other words, if Wellington had to have a battle of Waterloo, why in thunder couldn't he have it in in good season before the paper was made up?

ECONOMY PROGRAM IS EFFECTIVE

VANCE CHAPMAN, the "County Chairman," is an observant writer and has this to say of the economy program of Governor Christianson:

Magnus Johnson, Farmer-Labor candidate for governor, and Alfred Jacques, who is carrying the Democratic banner, do not take kindly to Governor's Christianson's brand of economy or his method of enforcing it. His stuff savors entirely too much of the dictator they say.

In the primary campaign, George E. Leach, the Governor's lone competitor, took a similar stand and failed to carry a county in the state. Another to attack the Governor's program was Floyd B. Olson in the campaign of 1924 and he also bit the dust in the finals. Instead of offering something better they put in their entire time advertising His Excellency and the result was disastrous in their case.

Admitting for the sake of argument that the average economy program is far from what it purports to be, still it is not without its appeal. Every taxpayer is strong in the belief that there is room for reform and he is generally strong for the fellow that can even make a showing. Viewed from this neck of the woods both Johnson and Jacques are making votes for the Governor.

THE WORLD MOVES

In scanning a report of the proceedings of the thirty-ninth annual session of the United Commercial Travelers, held at Columbus last June, we came upon the report of members who had attended the National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Mention is made of various river and harbor projects. Included in these is Muscle Shoals undertaking. Muscle Shoals project for power generation seems to be an undertaking bearing all the earmarks of antiquity, almost in line with the pyramids of the Egyptians, the mounds of the mound-builders in our Mississippi and doing about as much actual good. We quote:

"Another waste of money (by congress) was the dribbling appropriations for important and essential projects, which in many instances didn't cover the depreciation from year to year. A conspicuous example is the canal around the falls of the Tennessee River, at Muscle Shoals, Ala. This improvement was begun in 1820; ninety-seven years later, when the World War began, it was still unfinished, and if it had not been for that great event, the work would doubtless be unfinished at this time, 106 years after it was begun."

"FAIRMONT, in grand old Martin county, seems to get itself into more tight places than any other town in the state," says The Hibbing News. "With three funerals to be held, it was discovered that the town's only official grave-digger was locked up in the village bastille, charged with bootlegging." According to our notion, the whole affair is a grave matter and the facts should be dug up.

HEINIE MITCHELL, in an extended editorial in the Bemidji Daily Pioneer, deprecates the decline of the "social call." It may be declining in Bemidji, but not in Brainerd. Basil T. Heath Discusses Proposed Amendments to State Constitution

HIGH SCHOOL BONDS

Improvement League Decides Present Plans Are "Utterly Inadequate"

At the meeting of the Northeast Brainerd Improvement League, held Tuesday evening at the Lowell school, Basil T. Heath explained and discussed very explicitly the proposed amendments to the state constitution.

The high school bond issue was discussed in detail, pro and con arguments being submitted by Edward Crust Sr., Richard Isle, Henry Poppenberg, Robert Crust and S. A. Stanley, the latter two being members of the school board. Others also gave short talks.

The fact was brought out that the old section of the high school which has never been condemned and still is in good condition for grade purposes, would, if the amendment were passed, be torn down. The demolition of the building with its twelve rooms was not approved of as it is known that it is very urgently needed for grade and Junior high school purposes, and further it was thought unfeasible to destroy practically $75,000 worth of property which can be of use for several years to come.

According to the proposed plans the high school and an eight room grade building would be situated on 2 1/2 acres of land (one city block) leaving a margin of about 25 feet of space from Oak street and would leave for play ground purposes only 52 feet on either side what is now called the new part of the building and wings to the new high school would be extended for the entire length of the block practically enclosing the grade building on three sides. Also, there would be two large gymnasiums in one block while other parts of the city would have none.

All in all, the proposed plan it was decided, would not materially add to the present school facilities and would be utterly inadequate to take care of the future growth of the city.

This meeting was the first one of the year and was presided over by Mrs. J. H. Herbert, president. The Mesdames J. A. Thabes, J. P. Anderson, A. C. Weber also spoke and a transcription of a famous poem was given by Mrs. Herbert.

Mrs. W. C. Cobb Talks to Rotary Club at Last Meeting of Her Trip

DISCUSSES FRENCH SENTIMENT

Rotarians Talk in Favor of Holding Paving Celebration This Year

An innovation suggested by Rotarian E. F. Gates at the last dinner of the Rotary club at the Ransford hotel prompted the shifting of the members so that instead of all the members being at one big banquet table, they were divided into groups to sit at separate tables.

The speaker of the day was Mrs. W. C. Cobb who recently returned from a trip this summer to European countries. She spoke of the customs of the French people, of how taxi cab drivers had lately turned sullen towards the tips given them by American tourists. Previously a tip of one tenth of the fare was considered good form but now the cab drivers are not contented with this extra, she said. Discussing the reported antipathy of French people towards the American people, she stated that very little of this was in evidence, only that, of course, the French people became at times prejudiced towards certain American tourists who through their spending of money forced prices to go up. She stated that the French people believe that all Americans in France are wealthy. Regarding the spread of anti-American propaganda, she stated that not much of this was in evidence and that the press had disregarded and unfavorable publicity in this regard.

Mrs. Cobb also described the parade of the wounded soldiers and turning to the gaiety presented by the French people at national holidays.

SUFFERED FOR YEARS FROM CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in three weeks

That constipation need not strike fear upon your heart is proved by this letter from Mr. Thomas Henleiger:

"I wish to write and tell you how much I prize your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For twenty-five years I sought relief from constipation without success. But now I have been using your ALL-BRAN for three weeks and I can truthfully say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

THOMAS HENLEIGER,

Cleanse your system of constipation's devastating poisons by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, a health food that sweeps your intestines clean, stimulating normal, healthy action. Eat two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer will return the purchase price. Remember it is 100% bran! Try recipes given on every package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

Basil T. Heath Discusses Proposed Amendments to State Constitution

HIGH SCHOOL BONDS

Improvement League Decides Present Plans Are "Utterly Inadequate"

At the meeting of the Northeast Brainerd Improvement League, held Tuesday evening at the Lowell school, Basil T. Heath explained and discussed very explicitly the proposed amendments to the state constitution.

The high school bond issue was discussed in detail, pro and con arguments being submitted by Edward Crust Sr., Richard Isle, Henry Poppenberg, Robert Crust and S. A. Stanley, the latter two being members of the school board. Others also gave short talks.

The fact was brought out that the old section of the high school which has never been condemned and still is in good condition for grade purposes, would, if the amendment were passed, be torn down. The demolition of the building with its twelve rooms was not approved of as it is known that it is very urgently needed for grade and Junior high school purposes, and further it was thought unfeasible to destroy practically $75,000 worth of property which can be of use for several years to come.

According to the proposed plan the high school and an eight room grade building would be situated on 2 1/2 acres of land (one city block) leaving a margin of about 25 feet of space from Oak street and would leave for play ground purposes only 52 feet on either side what is now called the new part of the building; and wings to the new high school would be extended for the entire length of the block practically enclosing the grade building on three sides. Also, there would be two large gymnasiums in one block while other parts of the city would have none.

All in all, the proposed plan it was decided, would not materially add to the present school facilities and would be utterly inadequate to take care of the future growth of the city.

This meeting was the first one of the year and was presided over by Mrs. J. H. Herbert, president. The Mesdames J. A. Thabes, J. P. Anderson, A. C. Weber also spoke and a transcription of a famous poem was given by Mrs. Herbert.

COUNTY COMMISSIONERS

Candidates for Office in Second and Fourth Districts Listed

Through a typographical error, county commissioners running for election in the Second District appeared under the Fourth District candidacy heading, in yesterday's edition.

The correction reads:
Co. Commissioner for Second District Frank Lowey, nominated without party designation; Edward Crust, nominated without party designation.

Co. Commissioner for Fourth District Earl Welton, nominated without party designation; A. Frank Anderson, nominated without party designation.

GIVES TALK ON TRIP ABROAD

Mrs. W. C. Cobb Talks to Rotary Club at Last Meeting of Her Trip

DISCUSSES FRENCH SENTIMENT

Rotarians Talk in Favor of Holding Paving Celebration This Year

An innovation suggested by Rotarian E. F. Gates at the last dinner of the Rotary club at the Ransford hotel prompted the shifting of the members so that instead of all the members being at one big banquet table, they were divided into groups to sit at separate tables.

The speaker of the day was Mrs. W. C. Cobb who recently returned from a trip this summer to European countries. She spoke of the customs of the French people, of how taxi cab drivers had lately turned sullen towards the tips given them by American tourists. Previously a tip of one tenth of the fare was considered good form but now the cab drivers are not contented with this extra fee, she said. Discussing the reported antipathy of French people towards the American people, she stated that very little of this was in evidence, only that, of course, the French people became at times prejudiced towards certain American tourists who through their spending of money forced prices to go up. She stated that the French people believe that all Americans in France are wealthy. Regarding the spread of anti-American propaganda, she stated that not much of this was in evidence and that the press had disregarded and unfavorable publicity in this regard.

Mrs. Cobb also described the parade of the wounded soldiers and turning to the gayety presented by the French people at national holidays.

SUFFERED FOR YEARS FROM CONSTIPATION

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brought relief in three weeks

That constipation need not strike fear upon your heart is proved by this letter from Mr. Thomas Henleiger:

"I wish to write and tell you how much I prize your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. For twenty-five years I sought relief from constipation without success. But now I have been using your ALL-BRAN for three weeks and I can truthfully say that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

THOMAS HENLEIGER, West Point, Mississippi. Cleanse your system of constipation's devastating poisons by Kellogg's ALL-BRAN, a health food that sweeps your intestines clean, stimulating normal, healthy action. Eat two tablespoons daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. If eaten regularly, Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to bring permanent relief or your grocer will return the purchase price. Remember it is 100% bran! Try recipes given on every package. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is made by Kellogg in Battle Creek, Michigan. Sold by all grocers. Served in leading hotels and restaurants.

days, she described the celebration of Bastille Day.

President William V. Turcotte reported that the paving of Highway No. 27 to Brainerd had been completed and that it was now time to consider a befitting celebration for the occasion.

Dr. R. A. Belse, George D. LaBar,

Ernest Butler, O. A. Peterson, also spoke in favor of a celebration this year.

Rev. N. P. Olmsted deferred his talk on "A Phase of Rotary Education" till the next meeting.

WISCONSIN-MINNESOTA CLASH SATURDAY

MINNESOTA GIVEN A FAR SUPERIOR OFFENSE

GOPHERS APPEAR TO HAVE THE DRIVE, HAVE CAUGHT RIGHT SPIRIT

DOC SPEARS' SHIFT ATTACK LOOKS STRONGER THAN THE BADGERS

By CLARK B. KELSEY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

The most important game of the day is Wisconsin-Minnesota. Minnesota has by far the superior offensive while Wisconsin has the better defense. The Gophers appear to have drive and Coach Doc Spears' shift attack looks stronger than the Badgers'. However, Wisconsin has been developing slowly and may show great improvement tomorrow.

Chicago, Oct. 29.—Two important east-west football games, one north-south battle and three contests that bear on the Big Ten championship are on tomorrow's schedule.

Michigan, which ranks with Ohio State and Notre Dame as one of the three strong teams in the middle west, meets the Navy at Baltimore. Last year, at Ann Arbor, Michigan won a 54 to 0 victory over the Mid-dies. This year's Michigan team boasts a powerful line, but the team is not as strong as last year's while the whole Navy team is a much stronger article than the one which came west last season.

At Champaign, Pennsylvania, one of the strongest of eastern teams, faces Illinois. Last year at Philadelphia with the aid of a player named Grange, Illinois trounced the Red and Blue.

This year Grange is missing and the Pennsylvania team looks to have just a little edge on the Illini. Pennsylvania is unbeaten but its competition came from Franklin and Marshall, Johns Hopkins, Swarthmore and Williams.

At South Bend Coach Knute Rockne will try to drive his team through the golden tornado from Georgia Tech.

At Chicago the highly touted Freddie Grimm of Ohio State will try to duplicate his ground gaining feats of the early season.

The Ohio team is a top heavy favorite over Chicago's Maroons.

At Bloomington, Ind., Northwestern, which fought Notre Dame on even terms throughout last Saturday's game and lost in the final quarter, 6 to 0, will play the second of its games with Indiana. The Wildcats won the first one, 20 to 0, and should repeat.

Iowa takes on a "coaster" after two hard games by meeting Carroll College at Iowa City. Purdue does the same thing by playing Indiana Normal at LaPayette.

RUTH, KING OF SWAT, NOW IN MINNEAPOLIS

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.—(UP)—George Herman Ruth, the king of swat, arrived in Minneapolis today to start a 12 week vaudeville tour. Ruth predicted that he would appear again in Yankee uniform next season. The police band and children from the Catholic orphanage greeted him.

MARCH ON MADISON IS TO START SOON

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.—(UP)—The march on Madison will be started today by 3,000 Gopher students and others who are planning to attend the Minnesota-Wisconsin game Saturday.

Ticket sales early today had passed the 2,400 mark with indications that 3,000 or more would be disposed of by Minnesota authorities. The figure is exclusive of those bought by mail.

Special trains over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Chicago & Northwestern railroad, chartered busses and private automobiles will carry the crowd.

A protest led by the Minnesota Daily because the band was not being sent to Madison did not meet with success.

A parade of 5,000 students led by the band was the farewell campus gave Thursday to Dr. Clarence W. Spears and the 34 players he selected to go to Madison.

15,000 Cast in "The Big Parade"

Here are some interesting facts about "The Big Parade," which comes to the Park Theatre for one day only, Sunday, matinee and night, Oct. 31st, direct from its Twin City run, as a "road show."

It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, made at a cost of $750,000.

Made by King Vidor from Laurence Stallings' original story, with 15,000 persons in the cast. John Gilbert is star, Renee Adoree the featured player, and Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Hobart Bosworth, Claire McDowell, Claire Adams, Robert Ober and Rosta Marstini, principals.

In its second year at the Astor Theatre, New York, in which the first 30 weeks were played to receipts of $612,000 and 22,674 persons bought standing room.

Touring the United States and Canada with ten companies, Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 28.—(UP)—Judge William H. Harst of the Dauphin county court ruled today that the Philadelphia Athletics cannot legally play Sunday baseball in Pennsylvania.

BRAINERD AT LITTLE FALLS GAME TODAY

WILL MEET THEIR ANCIENT FOES ON THE GRID-IRON

GAME CALLED AT 3:15 P. M. WEATHER CONDITIONS IDEAL

The Brainerd high school football team, accompanied by a large contingent of rooters and fans, left this afternoon for Little Falls where they will meet their ancient foe of the gridiron in a hoped for fast contest that is to be called at 3:15 P. M. The weather conditions were ideal and as the Little Falls game is the one that is always looked forward to the local men, primed as never before, felt confident of a victory this morning.

The men who will see action are Captain Putz, DeRoche, Fitzharris, Wise, Hantula, Lorenz, Brown, Cregar, Finne, Greener, Ellison, Hanson, Fuller, Guin, Barnes, C. Welliver. There will be no school Armistice Day but it will be fittingly observed by appropriate exercises in the morning and a return game with Crosby-Inton has been secured for the afternoon. Brainerd battled the range school to a 13-13 tie in the game here so the next fray is expected to be hotly contested.

Another game is also being sought with Little Falls and whether or not they play will no doubt be a result of this afternoon's fray. The Brainerd-Little Falls game can be compared to a football classic as the down river team has been a traditional rival for innumerable years, and class spirit is very much in evidence at these contests.

"Variety" a Great Film I'm glad Paramount is releasing "Variety," says Jesse L. Lasky.

"Why? Because I honestly believe it to be one of the finest pictures I have ever seen. Certainly, it is by far the best film which has yet come from Europe's studios.

"The work of the two featured players, Emil Jannings and Lya De Putti, held me as though in a vise—unable to move. Mr. E. A. Dupont's direction I believe to be nothing short of marvelous, while the photography is as good as America's best.

"When you see 'Variety,' you will concur with me in thinking the story to be jammed with intense drama, fine handling of mobs, and startling thrills."

"Variety" opened at the Park today and closes tomorrow.

MUCH BACK FLOPPING SHOWN LAST WEEK

INTERCOLLEGIATE GRIDIRON IS VERY BADLY UPSET

PROPHETIC EXPERTS RETICENT ABOUT 3 BANNER ATTRACTIONS SATURDAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

New York, Oct. 29.—After the artistic exhibition of somersaulting, back flopping and high diving given on the inter-collegiate gridiron last week, there's not a cinch bet on tomorrow's schedule.

The prophetic experts refuse to go on record as to what will happen in the Michigan-Navy game, the Pennsylvania-Illinois game and the Stanford-Southern California game, the three banner attractions of the day.

While these three games are the most important from an intersectional point of view, there are any number of interesting games on the schedule.

Notre Dame against Georgia Tech will be watched with interest for the dope it will furnish on Knute Rockne's team against the Army.

For the same reason, aside from its spectacular trimmings, the Yale-Army game will attract attention outside of the eastern sector.

The powerful and experienced Army team, cherishing an ambition to win the eastern championship and beat the Navy, has been established as the favorite.

LaFayette and Washington-Jefferson, two teams that have won five straight games, will go through a test that will eliminate one of the two candidates for the eastern championship if it does not result in a tie.

West Virginia and Missouri, an undefeated team from the Missouri Valley conference, will meet in another interesting intersectional game in Morgantown.

Harvard, apparently shaken out of its losing habit in the Dartmouth game last week, takes a breather against Tufts in preparation for the Princeton game next week and Princeton will rest up for the first of the "Big Three battles" with a game against Swarthmore.

Origin of Enameled Tiles

The first enameled tiles were perfected by Luca della Robbia, the eminent Italian sculptor, who worked at Florence and Rimini in the early Fifteenth century. He adorned the Italian churches with tiles as well as with altar pieces.

MARCH ON MADISON IS TO START SOON

Minneapolis, Oct. 29.—(UP)—The march on Madison will be started today by 3,000 Gopher students and others who are planning to attend the Minnesota-Wisconsin game Saturday.

Ticket sales early today had passed the 2,400 mark with indications that 3,000 or more would be disposed of by Minnesota authorities. The figure is exclusive of those bought by mail.

Special trains over the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul and Chicago & Northwestern railroad, chartered buses and private automobiles will carry the crowd.

A protest led by the Minnesota Daily because the band was not being sent to Madison did not meet with success.

A parade of 5,000 students led by the band was the farewell campus gave Thursday to Dr. Clarence W. Spears and the 34 players he selected to go to Madison.

15,000 Cast in "The Big Parade"

Here are some interesting facts about "The Big Parade," which comes to the Park Theatre for one day only, Sunday, matinee and night, Oct. 31st, direct from its Twin City run, as a "road show."

It is a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, made at a cost of $750,000.

Made by King Vidor from Laurence Stallings' original story, with 15,000 persons in the cast. John Gilbert is star, Renee Adoree the featured player, and Karl Dane, Tom O'Brien, Hobart Bosworth, Claire McDowell, Claire Adams, Robert Ober and Rosita Marstini, principals.

In its second year at the Astor Theatre, New York, in which the first 30 weeks were played to receipts of $612,000 and 22,674 persons bought standing room.

by appropriate exercises in the morning and a return game with Crosby-Brainerd has been secured for the afternoon. Brainerd battled the range school to a 13-13 tie in the game here so the next fray is expected to be hotly contested.

Another game is also being sought with Little Falls and whether or not they play will no doubt be a result of this afternoon's fray. The Brainerd-Little Falls game can be compared to a football classic as the down river team has been a traditional rival for innumerable years, and class spirit is very much in evidence at these contests.

"Variety" a Great Film
I'm glad Paramount is releasing "Variety," says Jesse L. Lasky. "Why? Because I honestly believe it to be one of the finest pictures I have ever seen. Certainly, it is by far the best film which has yet come from Europe's studios."

"The work of the two featured players, Emil Jannings and Lya De Putti, held me as though in a vise—unable to move. Mr. E. A. Dupont's direction I believe to be nothing short of marvelous, while the photography is as good as America's best."

"When you see 'Variety,' you will concur with me in thinking the story to be jammed with intense drama, fine handling of mobs, and startling thrills."

"Variety" opened at the Park today and closes tomorrow.

MUCH BACK FLOPPING SHOWN LAST WEEK

INTERCOLLEGIATE GRIDIRON IS VERY BADLY UPSET

PROPHETIC EXPERTS RETICENT ABOUT 3 BANNER ATTRACTIONS SATURDAY

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
New York, Oct. 29.—After the artistic exhibition of somersaulting, back flopping and high diving given on the inter-collegiate gridiron last week, there's not a cinch bet on tomorrow's schedule.

The prophetic experts refuse to go on record as to what will happen in the Michigan-Navy game, the Pennsylvania-Illinois game and the Stanford-Southern California game, the three banner attractions of the day.

While these three games are the most important from an intersectional point of view, there are any number of interesting games on the schedule.

Notre Dame against Georgia Tech will be watched with interest for the hope it will furnish on Knute Rockne's team against the Army.

For the same reason, aside from its spectacular trimmings, the Yale-Army game will attract attention outside of the eastern sector.

The powerful and experienced Army team, cherishing an ambition to win the eastern championship and beat the Navy, has been established as the favorite.

LaFayette and Washington-Jefferson, two teams that have won five straight games, will go through a test that will eliminate one of the two candidates for the eastern championship if it does not result in a tie.

West Virginia and Missouri, an undefeated team from the Missouri Valley conference, will meet in another interesting intersectional game in Morgantown.

Harvard, apparently shaken out of its losing habit in the Dartmouth game last week, takes a breather against Tufts in preparation for the Princeton game next week and Princeton will rest up for the first of the "Big Three battles" with a game against Swarthmore.

Election Supplies Have Been Sent Out to 52 Precincts by County Auditor

6,801 VOTED AT PRIMARY

Voting Places in the City Outlined and Judges Named for Each

Election supplies have been sent out by the County Auditor's office to 52 precincts in the county, representing a poll of approximately 7,000 votes.

At the primary 6,801 votes were cast but judging from the interest shown in the coming election a much higher vote is expected.

For the advantage of the voters in the city, giving the polling places, the judges for each ward and the division of the wards, the following information was secured this morning from Mrs. E. T. Fleener:

First Ward

Polling place, City Hall. Judges, Charles Ellison, O. J. Turner, and Clifford Russell. All voters in that part of the city lying west of the center line of Sixth street and east of the Northern Pacific right of way on both sides of the river, vote in the First Ward.

Second Ward

First Precinct: Bowen's New Pair Shop, Main street between 6th and 7th streets. Judges, Mrs. Blanche Weber, C. W. Hoffman, B. C. McNamara. In Ward 2 the center line of 7th street is the dividing line of the ward. All west of the center line is the first precinct of the second ward and all east of the center line is the second precinct of the second ward.

Second precinct: Basement of the Public Library. Judges, A. T. Fisher, E. A. Roumaine, and C. H. Paine.

Third Ward

All residents in that part of the city, lying north of the Northern Pacific right of way and east of the ravine, constitutes the third ward.

The street south of the Lowell school building running east and west is the dividing line of the third ward. All residents south of the Lowell school vote in the first precinct of the Third ward and all residents north of the south side of the Lowell school, vote in the second precinct of the third ward.

First Precinct: Northeast Brainerd House. Judges, Mrs. Margaret Herbert, W. R. Weber, and H. Schwartzkopf.

Second precinct: Lowell School. Judges, Mrs. Mabel Kelly, Nelson Olson, S. A. Stanley.

Fourth Ward

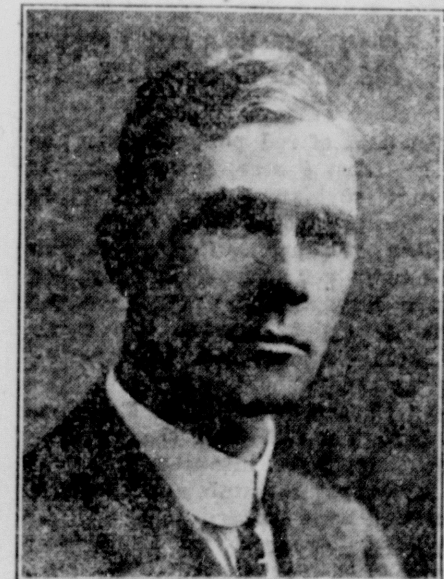

All residents in that part of the city lying south of the Northern Pacific right of way and east of the St. Paul tracks, constitute the fourth ward.

Polling place: Southeast Brainerd House. Judges, Arthur W. Olson, Juhlmar Dybvik, and Clark P. Anderson.

B. Rowley and Mrs. A. M. Opsahl were elected joint chairmen of the organization for the coming year. Mrs. C. B. Rowley took the chair and will wield the gavel for the first six months.

Plans were made for distributing before election day the five hundred "Get Out The Vote" dodgers purchased from the state office.

It was also decided to hold an Amendment Rally on election eve, Monday, Nov. 1st at the Chamber of Commerce, with speakers who would stress the importance of not neglecting to vote on the amendments. Men and women are urged to attend this meeting, a detailed program of which will be published later.

The intelligence of a community is largely gauged by the number of votes cast for amendments, so come out and show your interest in helping Brainerd to pass a high intelligence test.

Tracked by the Police

Novel by William B. Courtney

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Jimmy Ford smuggles a police puppy home after the war. Murtagh, a crooked politician who secretly leads a vicious gang, covets Jimmy's sweetheart, Ruth Allen. Jimmy's father, a New York police lieutenant, is mysteriously murdered. Jimmy joins the force to avenge him. Jimmy has an ally in Rinty, now full-grown, Murtagh's underworld sweetheart, Nell, frames Jimmy, who is dishonorably discharged. Gossing Rinty, who guards her, Murtagh steals Ruth and plans a getaway. Nell confronts them. Ruth begs her aid.

"You'll not go through with this thing, Dan Murtagh. I'm going for the dicks, and I'm going to tell them the truth—that you're the guy who stuck up the bank and murdered this kid's father!" Nell shrieked.

She turned and started for the passageway. Bottleneck moved to cover her retreat, but with a snarl of rage that matched the unexpectedness of his movement Dan hurried a stool, which he caught with one foot under a bottommost rung, straight into Bottleneck's face, flooring him. Nell, seeing this, broke into a run, but Murtagh overtook her, overwhelmed her, wrestled her back to the table and with a rope quickly seized from a drawer bound her arms behind her back.

Ruth meantime at Nell's revelation had screamed and swooned in horror. Finishing with Nell, Murtagh turned savagely upon Ruth, gagged her with his handkerchief and bound her in a similar fashion. Bound the two of them to chairs—gagged, thwarted.

Then he turned to be ready for Bottleneck. So swiftly had Dan worked that Bottleneck was just recovering from the stunning effects of the stool blow when Murtagh secured the last knot on Ruth.

Bottleneck was by no means the mental equal of Murtagh, but this discrepancy he more than made up in the wiles of a natural born "dirty" fighter. He stayed on his knees and feigned to be still dazed, pretending not to notice that Murtagh was covering him. The apparent insensibility of the fellow disarmed Murtagh, who relaxed his vigilance, but in that very instant Bottleneck struck, hurling himself, right from his knees, across the floor at Murtagh's legs in a frantic tackle. Murtagh fired, but the shot went wild. Another second and he was crashed to the floor by the powerful body of Bottleneck. As they thrashed desperately, chairs and tables were helter-skelter. An oil lantern, always kept lighted on a small stand near the trapdoor to the river for the gang's use in the secret unloading in the dark places under the dock, was overturned.

Ruth and Nell bound and helpless, saw what the men, in the lust of their hand-to-hand, throat-to-throat fight, could not see. Wild eyed, they saw flames from the lantern licking up some scattered newspapers, catching on the tinder dry boards of the wall. The warehouse was a fire!

CHAPTER 16

Meanwhile, through many long hours of the night, Rinty had lain unconscious on the Allen kitchen floor. The dawn brought a fresh, cold breeze that blew through the partially open kitchen window and dispelled the fog of fumes that still sagged heavily through the little flat. The only thing that had saved Rinty from death during the night was the fact that his motionless nose was out-thrust upon the floor beneath the heaviest part of the gas poison curtain, which, in common with most of such stuff, had a tendency to rise, a fact that further favored Rinty, because the strong new current of morning air reached his nostrils unimpeded. The first whiffings of it brought the first signs of life that Rinty had been trayed since his collapse. It was God-given relief. Presently, fairly well resuscitated, he was able to struggle to a half reclining position. Next he instinctively dragged himself along the path of clear air across the floor to the window. He rested a few moments in agony, then bravely carried on until he had pulled himself up on his haunches and was resting his long muzzle on the windowsill under the slightly open frame.

He sucked the outside air with great, tortured gasps. Strength returned slowly, but in the first relief of it he turned away from the window and the comfort of the cool breeze and staggered through the light, sustained more by an undying urge and impulse of duty than by fully recovered physical strength, in search of Ruth. But there was no sign of her.

Gone! Rinty experienced a fierce surge of shame that hurt more than the nostril searing poison gas. He had failed his trust! Left to guard Ruth by his confident master, he had been outwitted! Poor Rinty's head and tail drooped, barometers of the low state of his mind. Then as his marvelous buoyancy of muscle and mind, once started, now flowed back full-flood, he shook himself grimly. There was small time to waste in repining. Action! That's what the situation called for. Tracked! He bounded to the door, but here met an immediate rebuff, for the door was of the spring lock variety and had snapped securely when closed by the departing marauders the previous midnight. Rinty's skill and cunning and tricks availed him nothing with such a door.

He prospected around, loath to become reconciled to the idea that it was not possible for him to get out of the flat without the help of some human agency. He wished that Jimmy would come, but as he did not the next best thing was for Rinty to go fetch him. The open kitchen window attracted his notice again. He crossed to it, shoved his head under the slightly open frame and lifted up with his powerful shoulders—up, up, until the window was open wide enough for him to get his whole body through. He paused now, forepaws resting on the sill, and appraised his predicament. The fire escape was outside the bedroom window, which was closed. Unattainable! The yard, three stories below and composed of flagstones, represented too awful a drop. Then he noticed that a clothesline ran from this window to the fire escape of an opposite apartment house. Slowly Rinty framed a plan. Given, dog-like, to acting on instinct, anything calling for reasoning required laborious study. But Rinty was uncannily intelligent, and once the plan took full form in his mind he acted quickly.

Reaching up with his teeth he grasped a knot in the clothesline, then pulled his body through the window and swung clear over the abyss of stone yards and sharp fences!

The weight of his shaggy, awaying body pulleyed him swiftly across to the fire escape, where by a dexterous wiggle he caught hold with his forepaws, relinquished his jaw-grip on the line and scrambled to safety. It was so early that no one saw him, or they might have gone running to Father Clancy to unbosom the guilty conscience that made them see flying lions in the pale day dawn! Carefully negotiating the iron ladders, Rinty reached the courtyard level. A run and a leap and he was over an alley fence and racing out to the front of the Allen house.

He circled and sniffed around the door. Again the foul odor stung his quivering nostrils, the smell of that long remembered enemy! Instantly Rinty's sagacious mind put two and two together—connected Ruth's disappearance with the rendezvous of his enemy, which he knew from his adventure of that so recent night. The warehouse!

But first he must find Jimmy. He streaked out for the Ford home. Over on Eighth avenue he encountered the usual early morning crowd—laborers in the subway construction, dock workers, vagrants. All stared in surprise at the sight of the rushing dog. One there was who stared in more venom than surprise—Kid Twist beginning his hegira to parts remote. The Kid felt for his gun, but hesitated. After all, to shoot would attract unwelcome attention, perhaps cause arrest under the Sullivan law. But he had a score to settle with Rinty, the marks of whose fangs he would ever bear upon his wrists. He laughed ghoulishly as a dastardly idea came to him. He waited until Rinty had passed, then darted after him and set up a fearful cry of "Mad dog!"

No cry in all the sordid lexicon of mob hysteria arouses quicker public hatred than "Mad dog!" Within a few moments a stupid horde clattered after Rinty, whose only madness was excitement to save a loved one. And foremost in the mob were two of his erstwhile comrades, policemen, shooting at him.

NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. E. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

"Fine Manners" Enjoyed by Lyceum Audience, Eugene O'Brien Leading Man

If there's a moral to be gleaned from Gloria Swanson's latest picture, which is now showing at the Lyceum, it is—"Fine Manners Don't Make Fine Ladies."

But—that is as it may. "Fine Manners" stands head and shoulders above anything Gloria has done in the past year.

Gloria is more glamorous than ever before. As Orchid Murphy, the poor little hard-working burlesque chorus girl, she has a role that is new and distinctive.

RED PEPPER HEAT STOPS BACKACHE

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package. —Advt.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. —Advt.

Tracked by the Police

Novel by William B. Courtney

Copyright, 1928, Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.
"TRACKED BY THE POLICE," starring Rin-Tin-Tin, is a Warner Bros. production of this novel.

SYNOPSIS

Jimmy Ford smuggles a police puppy home after the war. Murtagh, a crooked politician who secretly leads a vicious gang, covets Jimmy's sweetheart, Ruth Allen. Jimmy's father, a New York police lieutenant, is mysteriously murdered. Jimmy joins the force to avenge him. Jimmy has an ally in Rinty, now full-grown. Murtagh's underworld sweetheart, Nell, frames Jimmy, who is dishonorably discharged. Gassing Rinty, who guards her, Murtagh steals Ruth, and plans a getaway. Nell confronts them. Ruth begs her aid.

"You'll not go through with this thing, Dan Murtagh. I'm going for the dicks, and I'm going to tell them the truth—that you're the guy who stuck up the bank and murdered this kid's father!" Nell shrieked.

She turned and started for the passageway. Bottleneck moved to cover her retreat, but with a snarl of rage that matched the unexpectedness of his movement Dan hurried a stool, which he caught with one foot under a bottommost rung, straight into Bottleneck's face, flooring him. Nell, seeing this, broke into a run, but Murtagh overtook her, overwhelmed her, wrestled her back to the table and with a rope quickly seized from a drawer bound her arms behind her back.

Ruth meantime at Nell's revelation had screamed and swooned in horror. Finishing with Nell, Murtagh turned savagely upon Ruth, gagged her with his handkerchief and bound her in a similar fashion. Bound the two of them to chairs—gagged, thwarted.

Then he turned to be ready for Bottleneck. So swiftly had Dan worked that Bottleneck was just recovering from the stunning effects of the stool blow when Murtagh secured the last knot on Ruth. Bottleneck was by no means the mental equal of Murtagh, but this discrepancy he more than made up in the wiles of a natural born "dirty" fighter. He stayed on his knees and feigned to be still dazed, pretending not to notice that Murtagh was covering him. The apparent insensibility of the fellow disarmed Murtagh, who relaxed his vigilance, but in that very instant Bottleneck struck, hurling himself, right from his knees, across the floor at Murtagh's legs in a frantic tackle. Murtagh fired, but the shot went wild. Another second and he was crashed to the floor by the powerful body of Bottleneck. As they thrashed desperately, chairs and tables went helter-skelter. An oil lantern, always kept lighted on a small stand near the trapdoor to the river for the gang's use in the secret unloadings in the dark places under the dock, was overturned.

Ruth and Nell bound and helpless, saw what the men, in the lust of their hand-to-hand, throat-to-throat fight, could not see. Wild eyed, they saw flames from the lantern licking up some scattered newspapers, catching on the tinder dry boards of the wall. The warehouse was aflame!

Meanwhile, through many long hours of the night, Rinty had lain unconscious on the Allen kitchen floor. The dawn brought a fresh, cold breeze that blew through the partially open kitchen window and dispelled the fog of fumes that still sagged heavily through the little flat. The only thing that had saved Rinty from death during the night was the fact that his motionless nose was out-thrust upon the floor beneath the heaviest part of the gas poison curtain, which, in common with most of such stuff, had a tendency to rise, a fact that further favored Rinty, because the strong new current of morning air reached his nostrils unobstructed. The first warning of it brought the first signs of life that Rinty had had.

trayed since his collapse. It was God-given relief. Presently, fairly well resuscitated, he was able to struggle to a half reclining position. Next he instinctively dragged himself along the path of clear air across the floor to the window. He rested a few moments in agony, then heavily carried on until he had pulled himself up on his haunches and was resting his long muzzle on the windowsill under the slightly open frame.

He sucked the outside air with great, tortured gasps. Strength returned slowly, but in the first feel of it he turned away from the window and the comfort of the cool breeze and staggered through the flat, sustained more by an undying urge of impulse of duty than by fully recovered physical strength, in search of Ruth. But there was no sign of her.

Gone! Rinty experienced a fierce surge of shame that hurt more than the nostril searing poison gas. He had failed his trust! Left to guard Ruth by his confident master, he had been outwitted! Poor Rinty's head and tail drooped, barometers of the low state of his mind. Then as his marvelous buoyancy of muscle and mind, once started, now flowed back full-fledged, he shook himself grimly. There was small time to waste in replanning. Action! That's what the situation called for. Tracking! He bounded to the door, but here met an immediate rebuff, for the door was of the spring lock variety and had snapped securely when closed by the departing marauders the previous midnight. Rinty's skill and cunning and tricks availed him nothing with such a door.

He prospected around, loath to become reconciled to the idea that it was not possible for him to get out of the flat without the help of some human agency. He wished that Jimmy would come, but as he did not the next best thing was for Rinty to go fetch him. The open kitchen window attracted his notice again. He crossed to it, shoved his head under the slightly open frame and lifted up with his powerful shoulders—up, up, until the window was open wide enough for him to get his whole body through. He paused now, forepaws resting on the sill, and appraised his predicament. The fire escape was outside the bedroom window, which was closed. Unattainable! The yard, three stories below and composed of flagstones, represented too awful a drop. Then he noticed that a clothesline ran from this window to the fire escape of an opposite apartment house. Slowly Rinty framed a plan. Given, dog-like, to acting on instinct, anything calling for reasoning required laborious study. But Rinty was uncannily intelligent, and once the plan took full form in his mind he acted quickly.

Reaching up with his teeth he grasped a knot in the clothesline, then pulled his body through the window and swung clear out over the abyss of stone yards and sharp fences!

The weight of his shaggy, swaying body pulleyed him swiftly across to the fire escape, where by a dexterous wiggle he caught hold with his forepaws, relinquished his jaw-grip on the line and scrambled to safety. It was so early that no one saw him, or they might have gone running to Father Clancy to unbosom the guilty conscience that made them see flying lions in the pale day dawn. Carefully negotiating the iron ladders, Rinty reached the courtyard level. A run and a leap and he was over an alley fence and racing out to the front of the Allen house.

He circled and sniffed around the door. Again the feud odor stung his quivering nostrils, the smell of that long remembered enemy! Instantly Rinty's sagacious mind put two and two together—connected Ruth's disappearance with the rendezvous of his enemy, which he knew from his adventure of that so recent night. The warehouse!

But first he must find Jimmy. He streaked out for the Ford home. Over on Eighth avenue he encountered the usual early morning crowd—laborers in the subway construction, dock workers, vagrants. NEW LAMP BURNS 94% AIR

Beats Electric or Gas

A new oil lamp that gives an amazingly brilliant, soft, white light even better than gas or electricity, has been tested by the U. S. Government and 35 leading universities and found to be superior to 10 ordinary oil lamps. It burns without odor, smoke or noise—no pumping up, is simple, clean, safe. Burns 94% air and 6% common kerosene (coal oil).

The inventor, J. E. Johnson, 609 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill., is offering to send a lamp on 10 days' FREE trial, or even to give one FREE to the first user in each locality who will help him introduce it. Write him today for full particulars. Also ask him to explain how you can get the agency, and without experience or money make $250 to $500 per month.

"Fine Manners" Enjoyed by Lyceum Audience, Eugene O'Brien Leading Man

If there's a moral to be gleaned from Gloria Swanson's latest picture, which is now showing at the Lyceum, it is—"Fine Manners Don't Make Fine Ladies."

But—be that as it may, "Fine Manners" stands head and shoulders above anything Gloria has done in the past year.

Gloria is more glamorous than ever before. As Orchid Murphy, the poor little hard-working burlesque chorus girl, she has a role that is new and distinctive.

RED PEPPER HEAT STOPS BACKACHE

The heat of red peppers takes the "ouch" from a sore, lame back. It can not hurt you, and it certainly ends the torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub, and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers.

Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package. —Advt.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash, or pimples, or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth.

Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. —Advt
